Attendance and Tardies

Attendance is key to your child's academic success. Please remember that students are counted tardy if they arrive to school after 8:15 a.m. or if they leave after 2:30 p.m.

Only a fraction of what your children learn comes from their time in the classroom. Home and community activities help children grow, and reinforce concepts they are learning in school. Here are some everyday tips you might try:

- Get the library habit. Libraries hold a world of information. Try going twice a month.
- Help with hobbies. They are a great way to expand your child's learning.
- Make it a game. Once a week, play a board or word game together.
- Be on the lookout. Watch for local fairs and community events to attend as a family.
- Take walks together. Discuss what you see along the way.
- Spend one-on-one time. Kids need both "quality" and "quantity" time. But, there's nothing like spending time alone with a parent to make a child feel special. Every month, make an appointment to spend some time alone with each child. Get out your calendar and write it down. Then treat that appointment as seriously as you would an important business meeting.
